LI: An Introduction to Unifrog.

When researching types of careers you are able to watch videos where you will need to use your headphones.

What do you want to do when you grow up?

- It's really hard to answer the question "What do you want to do when you grow up?" – the options are endless!
- Everyone has different interests and a different personality – knowing what your interests are and how they link to different careers will help you understand which path might be right for you.
- This activity will help you understand your own personality a little better and will help you start to see links between what you're interested in and the jobs it could lead on to.

Quality Audience

All students actively listening.

Only the teacher and selected student speaking.

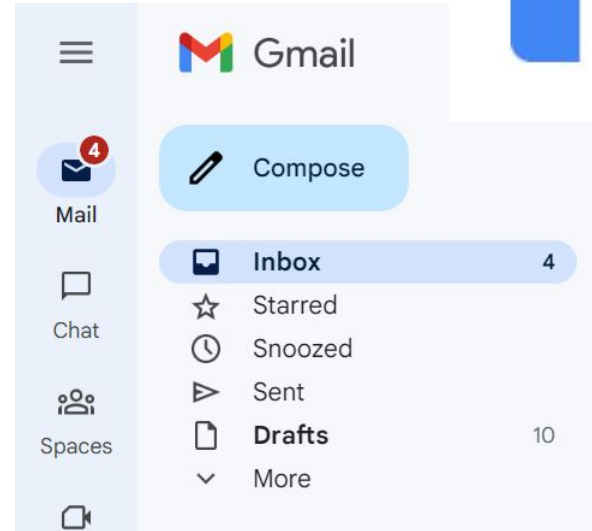

Step 1: Go to your google mail account.

In your inbox there should be an email from Unifrog welcoming you to the platform.

Click on this link and it will take you to Unifrog then ask you to create a new password.

Your teacher will never know this - so please do write it down / save it in your passwords app.

If your welcome email says, “Hi Sophie !” and your name is Tom, this is an error which you can fix using a slide instruction later on in this deck.

Step 3: Take the Personality Quiz

Learn more about yourself and explore the careers commonly associated with your closest personality types so be honest! This will then link you to potential career paths. Obviously, you are a complex human being and these are just online quizzes, but they can be a great (and fun) starting point for you to think about what you enjoy. You can retake this quiz at any point!

Have a different name in your welcome email?

This is an easy one to fix. My apologies but somehow this has been mixed up when entering all 700 students from our school.

The main thing is that you have the welcome email!

You can amend this yourself once you have logged in by clicking the settings tab on the top right of the homescreen - a cogged wheel as screenshot below. It may ask you to click some 'okay' tabs which come up. It is okay to save the changes.
